Call for Executive Committee Nominations

The Sierra Club San Diego Nominating Committee is seeking Chapter members to run for the Chapter Executive Committee (ExCom) in the 2018 Election. The committee seeks a diverse pool of candidates, balanced in terms of gender, ethnicity, and geography. The Sierra Club San Diego membership will elect three Executive Committee members in 2018.

The candidate questionnaire is available at the Sierra Club San Diego office, on the Club website at sandiegosierraclub.org or by calling the Sierra Club office at 858-569-6005.

The ideal candidate for the San Diego Chapter Executive Committee is an experienced, effective leader who has a clear vision for the Chapter’s future and a proven capacity to work with people to achieve goals and resolve problems. The Nominating Committee will contact potential candidates and will send a questionnaire to those who request.

Congratulations to Our Newest Chapter Outings Leaders!

Each year the Sierra Club San Diego hosts two Chapter Outings Leader (COL) training sessions. Once in the Spring and Fall for both Level I and Level II leaders. What’s the difference? COL I’s can lead day hikes and car camps and COL II’s can also lead backpacks. In 2017, we had an exceptional group of people participate in the training and become leaders and we’d like to congratulate their efforts:

Explore, Enjoy and Protect the Planet
As many of you are aware much has happened since last I addressed you through this media: environmental disasters continue to occur in the form of flooding which caused mudslides; fires; rapidly melting ice caps, etc. No one is really truly so naïve to believe that the cold weather could “use a little more global warming” as the president suggested at one point recently. The short of the matter is, by respected scientific accounts, global warming is in fact the cause of our drastically erratic weather patterns. Paraphrasing an oft-cited statement, “ours is not to question why; ours is but to do or die.” If you talk to environmentalists in the know you may hear some of them state that we are already too late to turn back the tide; that ambitious goals to be free of GHG emissions by 2030 are unreachable pipe dreams; that under the current administration offshore oil drilling will be unstoppable, etc.

Why so much negativity, guys?
Let me propose that we continue our climate change mobilization efforts; that we shout from the sandy beaches and the beautiful mountains tops, from all wilderness and urban points, “We are strong. We love this planet Mother Earth. We will not let negativity control our goals. Instead, we will mobilize (along with the Cassidys) to change the course of posterity. And, when we reflect back, not too far down the road, we will be able to proudly state, we saved this planet for ourselves, our loved ones and all future generations. We fought for all good things: all humanity, all wilder-nesses, all creatures, and all floras.

If for any reason you cannot personally meet this challenge then please nominate someone who you believe is an ideal candidate to lead the Sierra Club toward the future—a future we should all be taking all measures possible to reach an environmentally sound “pale blue dot”. To quote Carl Sagan, “The significance of our lives and our fragile planet is then determined only by our own wisdom and courage.”

So let’s show the world that we are wise and courageous, and know how to do the right thing.

Time To Get Politically Active

The Political Committee is a group of Sierra Club volunteers who share an interest in the political process and who recognize the importance of an informed voter public as a critical element in our efforts to protect our wild areas. Members work with candidates and issues to further the conservation efforts of Sierra Club.

Meet the Chapter’s New Staff

Marty Marquez
Administrative Assistant
A new hire in December 2017 and a San Diego native, Marty has an extensive background as an administrative assistant in various fields, most recently as a property manager. She earned her bachelor’s degree in Accounting from National University 2013 online program while working full time. She also maintains a small business doing billing, taxes, and is a notary.

In the past 3 years, she began hiking well known trails in San Diego, followed by the Grand Canyon and Yosemite for the first time, it was love at first sight. This past President weekend 2018, she visited Sedona for the first time and did a couple of hikes with friends. Her only regret is that hiking was never introduced to her as a kid.

She has traveled to Machu Piccho in 2015, France 2001, South Africa 2001 for pleasure, and to Guadalajara, Mexico for family. Pacific Beach has been her home for the past 11 years and it is where the bay, beach, community, and outdoor activities thrive in this beautiful vacation destination. Her travels and home inspire her to do more to protect the beauty, people, and animals from any threat harmful to our wellbeing. With the current White House administration, destiny was calling when she heard and applied for the position, leading her on the path of activism.

Kyle Rentschler
Conservation Organizer
Kyle Rentschler joins Sierra Club San Diego after extensive volunteering at several conservation and wildlife rehabilitation non-profits including Climate Action Campaign, the Audubon Society, the San Diego Zoo, and three wildlife rehabilitation centers. After earning his doctorate working on ethics and virtual realities at New York University, he is excited to return to the natural world and take his volunteering to the next level. As the Conservation Organizer, Kyle will be primarily working on SANDAC (San Diego Activist Citizens), a targeted volunteer campaign advocating for increased public transit investment at SANDAG.

When he’s not working at Sierra Club, Kyle likes to hike and birdwatch as often as possible. He and his wife have hiked together in over 100 parks throughout California (including more than 40 within San Diego County) and in 37 of our 59 National Parks. In addition to hiking, Kyle enjoys reading, listening to music, playing games, and cooking. He is also a partner at a local tutoring organization that focuses on helping students from low-income families and is a staff writer at the video game criticism website Goomba Stomp.

What is SANDAC?
SANDAC, or San Diego Activist Citizens, is a new volunteer program at Sierra Club San Diego Chapter that focuses on advancing public transit throughout San Diego County. Not to be confused with SANDAG (San Diego Association of Governments), SANDAC’s mission is to encourage SANDAG to consider and ultimately opt for a transit-first Regional Transportation Plan (RTP). In stark contrast to the business-as-usual eco-unfriendly 2015 RTP that heavily prioritized freeway development and sprawl over public transit and density, we want the 2019 RTP to put transit first. By allocating the majority of SANDAG’s 1.3 billion dollar annual budget to public transit development and operations, a transit-first RTP would not only slash greenhouse gas emissions but also help conserve open space, improve air quality and public health, and advance social equity.

Why now?
Right now, SANDAC is in the process of developing an update to the 2015 RTP, which will be adopted in 2019. This is our best opportunity to let SANDAG board members know where Sierra Club stands and to instigate positive change in the planning process. Furthermore, the recent passage of AB 805, which shifts voting power in favor of larger cities more receptive to investment in public transit, increases the likelihood that SANDAG will be responsive to our demands.

How does it work?
SANDAC pairs each of SANDAG’s 21 board members and their 42 alternates with one of their constituents. For example, if you live in Encinitas, you would be paired with either the mayor of Encinitas or one of their two alternates. Each volunteer will act as a direct, clear, and positive line of communication between Sierra Club San Diego and SANDAG, keeping each SANDAG board member aware of Sierra Club’s messaging through the relationship they develop with that board member.

Outside of an initial training, participation in the SANDAG program will require only an estimated 3-4 hours of work per month. Most of that time will be spent reaching out to and meeting with your assigned SANDAG board member, along with occasionally speaking at city council meetings and SANDAG board meetings. It is a unique opportunity to meaningfully participate in local politics while taking a minimal amount of time out of your schedule. And the impact of your volunteer efforts just might be reflected in the passage of a forward-thinking RTP that positively impacts San Diego for thirty years and beyond.

If you are interested in transportation, local politics, city planning, or the future of San Diego County, please consider volunteering for San Diego Activist Citizens. For more information, or to sign up as a volunteer, please email join@sandac.org. Visit us on the web at www.sandac.org.
Since 1982 the San Diego Chapter has been offering bus trips to a variety of National and State Parks.

What makes these trips special is that they are organized by a fantastic team of volunteer leaders and nobody pays them for their efforts. They do it out of an appreciation for these special places and a passion for sharing them with you. We look forward to having you join us on a bus trip to explore, enjoy and protect the planet.

Seal Society Notes

The harbor seals of La Jolla have had a very good pupping season, with about 45 viable newborns born between the Closed Beach at Casa (aka Children's Pool Beach) and the beach at South Casa. The new information/cautionary signs provided by NOAA at the crowded intersection of the stairs to S. Casa caution the public to stay a safe distance away when there are resting seals. However, we are asking them to place signs closer to the bottom of the stairs, preferably anchored in the sand where they are more visible. The thrill of being close to such an unusual collection of marine mammals on a beach often overrides unknowing visitors consideration for the well being of the nursing mothers and pups. The message is; “Do not disturb the seals in a way that causes a change in their behavior, such as a “flush” reaction, whereby the seals are driven off the beach.”

Seal Society docents have been promoting awareness of the colony at several venues. We “tabled” during the January Martin Luther King Peoples Breakfast with Jean Costa who represented the chapter. We have conducted a very successful series of powerpoint presentations at Mangelsen’s Nature Gallery on the basic biology, behavior, and habitat needs of the seals, and talked to 150 plus students at the Wilderness Basic Course “Chapter Activities” night. We have conducted a program at several local libraries and at UCSD. We are also collecting signatures for the 2019 re-hearing of the beach closure ordinance by the California Coastal Commission.

We can be seen educating the many visitors at the beach on a continual basis. One of our shirts has the words “Ask Me” on the back which has proven very useful. A common questions is, “Are these seals or sea lions?” Once we show the pictures of the two species side by side, the answer is very clear. Seals are quiet, do not have external ear flaps and are about one third the size of the sea lions.

If you are interested in becoming a docent, we have an excellent training program consisting of three sessions with an experienced volunteer. Most of us have been with the program for several years as an advocate for this wonderful colony located in such a highly urban setting. Contact Ellen Shively at ellenshively@sbcglobal.net.
Conservation Committee Up and Running

The North County Group has established a conservation committee and is working to provide more opportunities for members to be involved. In February, NCG held a very successful member meeting where we discussed local environmental issues facing us in the North County Inland region. NCG is already working to ensure that both Vista and Escondido’s Climate Action Plan (CAP) Updates actually achieve improvements for the climate. These two CAPs received the lowest ranking of all CAPs in the region in the first Climate Action Campaign Report card. We hope, with support from residents, these City Councils will improve their climate action commitments.

We are also seeking members to serve in the Chapter’s SANDAC (San Diego Activist Citizens) campaign to secure a responsible Regional Transportation Plan. The Club will train volunteers who will help us advocate effectively with SANDAG (San Diego Association of Governments) members. The goal is to persuade SANDAG to prioritize public transit in the 2019 edition of the Regional Transportation Plan. Please contact our Conservation Coordinator Kyle Rentschler at join@sandac.org if you are a resident of Escondido, Vista, Poway, San Marcos, or Supervisorial District 5 and want to spend 2 hours a month improving our region.

Last, our priority for this quarter is securing ballot signatures for the Safeguard Our San Diego Backcountry (SOS) initiative. This ballot measure would mandate that a vote of the people be required to increase density in the unincorporated areas of the County. This protection is desperately needed to stop urban sprawl development. If you are a NCG member and want to get involved, please contact Laura Hunter, Conservation Chair at earthlover@sbcglobal.net

Sierra Club Endorses Safeguard Our San Diego Countryside Initiative

Sierra Club members here is a petition you will feel secure signing. Sierra Club California, along with your San Diego Chapter Steering Committee, have examined and endorsed the Safeguard Our San Diego Countryside initiative language.

The Safeguard Our San Diego Countryside Initiative brings voters back in control of our County Board of Supervisors. When passed, the initiative requires the supervisors to adhere to our land use constitution, the County General Plan. When developers request more density than zoning allows - the supervisors may still pass the project - but final approval must now be gained by a vote of the taxpayers.

Unfortunately, land use processes and decisions in San Diego County largely preclude even the most diligent citizens. What we continue to experience are teams of developer consultants, attorneys and lobbyists with instant access to staff and decisionmakers. Developers may employ dozens of people working full time to influence the Board of Supervisors.

Time and again, homeowners and community advocates have been forced to raise money to defend their neighborhoods from high impact projects even when the plans are unsuitable under the County’s General Plan. In the countdown to November voting, those days of inequity will be short-lived if the Safeguard Our San Diego Countryside Initiative wins with the assistance of our Chapter members, family and friends.

Please help in this battle by signing the petition to Safeguard Our San Diego Countryside. No matter what area you live in, every eligible voter in San Diego County can sign and participate.

You will find the signature gatherers at most major shopping centers. You can also sign the petition at our Clairemont Mesa office. Please stop in at the office or call 858-569-6005 for a petition location near you. Thanks for everything you do!

George Courser,
Conservation Committee Chair
Joanne Hooper Pearson Remembered

Sierra Club San Diego Chapter lost a longtime activist and friend, Joanne Hooper Pearson, who passed away peacefully at age 81 of natural causes in Napa, California on February 3, 2018. Joanne used her in-depth knowledge of land use issues to advocate for the public. From 1997 to 2005, she was Chair of the San Diego Chapter’s Coastal Committee playing a lead role in addressing coastal projects before the San Diego City Council and California Coastal Commission. In 2004, Joanne organized an environmental coalition to testify successfully before the California Coastal Commission for adoption of the La Jolla Local Coastal Program Update, which resulted in acceptance by the City of San Diego and the California Coastal Conservancy of all outstanding public accesses along the La Jolla coastline.

Joanne was born December 22, 1936 in Nashville, Tennessee to Russell and Sarah (Stewart) Hooper. She graduated from the Harpeth Hall School in 1954 and earned a B.A. in Philosophy, Magna Cum Laude, and Phi Beta Kappa, from Vanderbilt University, in 1958.

Her professional career included teaching at Shawnee-Mission High School in Kansas and owning and operating Pearson-Hooper Plant & Seed, a wholesale specialty fruit and edible flower provider based out of Julian and La Jolla, California.

From 1975 to 1978, Joanne attended Western State University College of Law in San Diego, during which she was invited to the Law Review and received American Jurisprudence Awards in Criminal Law, Property, and Civil Procedure.

From 1992 until her retirement, Joanne used her legal training to become deeply involved with local and regional politics, with an emphasis on land use and environmental issues. Joanne served the La Jolla Town Council as Land Use Chair (1992-1996), as a member of the Board of Trustees, and as President (1994-1996). In these roles, she organized community and citywide forums on regional transportation issues, code enforcement, regulatory relief, categorical exclusion, and the San Diego Land Development Code Update. Joanne served the La Jolla Community Planning Association as Chair of the Natural Resources and Open Space Committee for the La Jolla Community Plan Update. She was a founding board member of the Cleveland National Forest Foundation, a conservancy dedicated to education, sensitive resource restoration, and habitat acquisition.

Joanne’s ability to tackle complex land use issues and bring diverse groups to consensus on long-term land use planning earned her the attention of state elected officials. In 1994, Joanne received recognition from the California State Assembly “in honor of her commitment to preserve and enhance our coastal environment, and for her in-depth research and effective testimony before the California Coastal Commission.” In 1997, she was named the California State Assembly “Woman of the Year” for the 78th Assembly District. In 1998, she was nominated to the California Coastal Commission by Assembly Member Howard Wayne and Senator Dede Alpert.

In addition to her many years of public service, Joanne lovingly raised four children, was an avid organic gardener, an orchard horticulturist, and a pianist. She generally embodied a deep sense of beauty, grace, and intelligence.

Joanne is survived by her two brothers, Russell and John Hooper, and her sister, Claire Drowota, of Nashville, Tennessee. She is survived by her four children, Steven Pearson and wife Kim; David Pearson and wife Linnea; Virginia Shogren and husband Andrew; and Kate Gauger and husband Craig. Also surviving are eleven grandchildren, Deanna, John, and Brett Pearson; Madeleine, Sofia, and Spencer Pearson; Grant and Emma Shogren; and Matthew, Ellie, and Sarah Gauger.

Joanne was preceded in death by her husband and life partner of 58 years, John Edward Pearson, who passed away in August 2017, her parents, and her beloved grandmother, Josephine Stewart Cason.

The family will announce a future date for a celebration of Joanne’s life. They suggest memorials in her name be given to the Sierra Club of San Diego or the Cleveland National Forest Foundation.

You can support the Sierra Club Foundation, San Diego Chapter’s conservation program by hopping out of your unwanted vehicle and donating it to the Sierra Club Foundation! Cars, boats, trucks, SUVs, motorcycles and even planes are accepted. We’ll even take that pastel pink buggie or spotted pinto... Whatever it may be, your generous donation is a golden egg to us! Movie: I Am Another You (2017): 1 Hour 21 Minutes
When Chinese filmmaker Nanfu Wang (recipient of the 2016 Peabody Award for her film Hooligan Sparrow) first came to America, Florida seemed like an exotic frontier full of theme parks, prehistoric swamp creatures and sunburned denizens. As she travels across the country from one city to another, she encounters a charismatic young drifter named Dylan. Fascinated by his rejection of society's rules and unsure of his past, Nanfu follows Dylan with her camera on a journey that spans years, takes her across America, and leads her to explore the meaning of freedom and to discover something that calls her entire worldview into question. The Hollywood Reporter describes this film as “cinematic poetry.”

Living with Gorillas
Up until 1991, there were three great apes living in the Bwindi Impenetrable Forest in Uganda. Then their world was turned upside down. The Batwa people, otherwise known as pygmies, were forced from the forest. These traditional semi-nomadic hunter-gatherers were forced to settle into communities where they are unwelcome -- without education, jobs, property or community standing. This is a story about improving quality of life for the Batwa and for mountain gorillas. Get an intimate view into the lives of the Batwa, the mountain gorilla, and, surprisingly, the Maasai from two countries away.

The presenter, Bill Toone studied the endangered California condor and the causes of its decline. That work grew into a conservation program of world renown; and Bill soon found himself featured in newspapers and magazines, then filming wildlife documentaries in the Costa Rican rainforests with Olivia Newton-John. With his expertise in demand, he performed solid conservation work in some of the most remote regions of the world. In countries such as Honduras, Cameroon, and Madagascar, he not only witnessed incredible wildlife spectacles, but also came in close contact with some of most poor, and poorly understood, populations of people. Currently, Bill continues to work in such places as Mexico, Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda. And his stories, gathered just this Fall in an encounter with wild gorillas, will offer hope for a planet in which humans, plants and animals can provide mutual assurance of wellness and security.

La Rumorosa Rock Art
Along the Border
This presentation by Don Liponi is based on the first publication to focus on the rock art of this region, primarily along the California and Baja California deserts, the southern Colorado River corridor, and southwest Arizona. Almost none of the sites or photographs have ever been published. A meticulous search of the landscape employing newer technology such as DStretch® enhancement rendered many more discoveries. Small traces of pigment often led to the resurrection of complete elements and rock art panels. This largely shamanistic and spiritual artform has provided guidance to the Kumeyaay-Tipai people and their ancestors for 10,000 years or more.

Don Liponi’s father introduced him to the spiritual nature of the desert and its people as a teenager. This led him on a 50 year intimate relationship with the Southwest and its immutable prehistoric and contemporary peoples. His “perceptive preceptors” at the El Centro BLM, such as Bob Begole, Fran Barnes and Michael Kelsey, helped add a more scientific framework to structure his “ethereal romance” with the desert. His work is intended as a tribute to the remarkable Kumeyaay and their ancestors who have been gifted land stewards of this land for many millennia.

Kumeyaay Ethnobotany: Shared Heritage of the Californias.
For thousands of years, the Kumeyaay have interacted with native plants and continuously refining their botanical knowledge. This presentation, based on the beautifully illustrated book, explores the remarkable interdependence between native peoples and native plants of the Californias. It connects the archaeological and historical record with living cultures and native plant specialists who share their ever-relevant wisdom for future generations. Today, many Kumeyaay Indians in the far-flung ranches of Baja California carry on the traditional knowledge and skills for transforming native plants into food, medicine, arts, tools, regalia, construction materials, and ceremonial items.

The author and anthropologist Michael Wilken-Robertson, whose advocacy and applied research have allowed him to develop lifelong friendships with many Native Baja Californians, will share some of his experiences behind the book. His research and advocacy work with Native Baja Californians has explored traditional arts, ethnobotany, history, languages, and cultural landscapes of the indigenous peoples of the northern Baja California region. Michael currently teaches in the anthropology department at California State University, San Marcos.
Protecting the Mission Valley Stadium Site and the San Diego River

By Peter Andersen

As Sierra Club San Diego Chapter Vice Chair and a longtime advocate for protecting San Diego’s environmental resources, I am proud that the Sierra Club has unanimously endorsed the SDSU West initiative and opposed the SoccerCity initiative.

Local and state Sierra Club leadership recognize that SDSU West will adhere to all aspects of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) including a full Environmental Impact Report and open public hearings. CEQA, the gold standard in environmental protection here in the Golden State, has successfully protected California from dangerous, imprudent and environmentally-destructive development projects for decades. CEQA gives citizens knowledge about what is being built in their community, how it will affect their lives and their environment, the ability to propose alternatives, and ways to advocate for improvements.

Too often developers or investors use the initiative process or “ballot-box planning” as a way to circumvent local planning groups, City Councils, and environmental reviews. In 2016, with advice from Sierra Club, voters soundly rejected another circumvention of CEQA, the Lilac Hills project, by a vote of 64%-36%. The Sierra Club looks favorably on projects or proposals like SDSU West that comply with the CEQA process, as it protects our community and environment.

Sierra Club also supports SDSU West because it ensures the creation of nearly 90 acres of public parks in Mission Valley. Included in this total is a proposed 50-acre River Park, providing public access to the often ignored San Diego River and guarantees its completion within seven years of San Diego State University’s acquisition of the property. SDSU West respects the San Diego River and critical adjacent riparian habitats.

Furthermore, SDSU West preserves the stadium site as a public place for all San Diegans and allows for an appropriately sized development. SDSU West creates the opportunity for one of our most trusted public institutions to acquire the site at fair market value for the creation of highly-needed classrooms, dormitories, athletic facilities, and research laboratories. After decades of educating thousands of students and conducting research at SDSU, I’ve experienced firsthand the University’s critical need to expand in Mission Valley.

Sierra Club also unanimously voted to oppose the competing SoccerCity initiative, which seeks to completely circumvent the CEQA process, provides no Environmental Impact Report and prohibits any public hearings. Bypassing the critical CEQA process is deceptive and environmentally-damaging land planning.

This maintains the longstanding Sierra Club position to oppose projects that use the initiative process to sidestep the CEQA process and to convert public land to private purposes. SoccerCity proposes a soccer stadium and 3.1 million square feet of commercial real estate development, increasing traffic congestion in the already crowded Mission Valley. SoccerCity does not offer appropriate traffic mitigations or impose legal obligations for FS Investors to actually deliver on their campaign promises.

While SoccerCity advocates the creation of a 34-acre River Park, according to San Diego City Attorney Mara Elliott there is no timeline or obligation on the part of FS Investors to build such a park. Even further, SoccerCity’s initiative states that if any regional, state or federal permits are required for the construction of the River Park, then FS Investors has no obligation to actually deliver said River Park. Based on my environmental advocacy experience and also stated by the City Attorney, at least one of those types of permits will be needed to develop a River Park.

Sierra Club strongly and unanimously recommends a YES vote on SDSU West and a NO vote on SoccerCity. This year San Diego residents will have the opportunity to vote on the future of the existing stadium site in Mission Valley and the opportunity guarantee a permanent, public River Park. SDSU West is the sensible approach because it is in the public interest not for private profit.

National Sierra Club Elections are Underway - VOTE!

Those eligible to vote in the national Sierra Club election will receive in the mail (or by Internet if you chose the electronic delivery option) your national Sierra Club ballot in early March. This will include information on the candidates and where you can find additional information on the Club’s web site.

Your participation is critical for a Strong Sierra Club.

The Sierra Club is a democratically structured organization at all levels. The Club requires the regular flow of views on policy and priorities from its grassroots membership in order to function well. Yearly participation in elections at all Club levels is a major membership obligation.

In a typical year less than 10% of eligible members vote in the Board elections. A minimum of 5% is required for the elections to be valid. Our grassroots structure is strengthened when our participation is high. That means your participation is needed in the voting process.

How can I learn about the candidates?

Members frequently state that they don’t know the candidates and find it difficult to vote without learning more.

Each candidate provides a statement about themselves and their views on the issues on the official election ballot. You can learn more by asking questions of your group and chapter leadership and other experienced members you know. You can also visit the Club’s election web site for additional information about candidates:

Chapter Launches Home Solar Program

The San Diego Chapter recently made a powerful announcement: Sierra Club members are divesting from fossil fuels and joining the solar energy revolution. With a 70-year track record of protecting the environment in the San Diego region, the Chapter launched a Home Solar Program in collaboration with Sullivan Solar Power at a media event at SDG&E’s Corporate Campus.

“SDG&E uses dirty fossil fuels which pollute our environment, impact our health and quality of life, and contribute to disasters across the world,” said Dylan Lainas, an 11-year-old Carlsbad resident who spoke at the press event alongside his 7-year-old brother, “Our world will benefit as more people use solar, which is why I’m excited to support Sierra Club San Diego’s new solar program with Sullivan Solar Power.”

The solar partnership will offer a series of educational solar events throughout San Diego County. For each Sierra Club member or supporter who signs up to go solar through the program, Sullivan Solar Power will donate $500 back to the Chapter to further our vision of San Diego Solar Power.

The 29th annual EarthFair in Balboa Park lands on National Earth Day this year: April 22nd from 10am to 5pm. With the theme, “We’re All In This Together,” the Earth Day Parade through the EarthFair begins at 10:30am. In just a few hours, in honor of Earth Day, you can check-in directly with more than 300 exhibits of groups and businesses sharing what they’re doing. Whether it’s a product, a service or a project you can volunteer for, there’s something for everyone.

Discouraged? Go to the EarthFair
Depressed? Volunteer!

Walk in the Parade...

While there’s a never-ending stream of bad news for sustainability and climate change policies from the federal government, at least in California, we’re still up to the challenge. I know the bad news gets me down. But then I look and see the things the Chapter is doing, and the number of groups and businesses and ways to make a difference, and I know there’s a lot of good rising up to create the greener, sustainable world we all need to live in. We just need to keep working to make it happen. Drop by the Chapter’s booth on El Prado East or better yet - volunteer at our booth AND visit the EarthFair: EarthParade.org Volunteer for the EarthFair: EarthDayWeb.org Volunteer for the Sierra Club at the EarthFair: email: scoffic@sierasd.org

“We’re constantly being bombarded by problems that we face and sometimes we can get completely overwhelmed. [But] we should always feel like a hummingbird. I may feel insignificant, but I don’t want to be like the other animals watching the planet go down the drain. I’ll be a hummingbird, I’ll do the best I can.” - Wangari Maathai

Wangari Maathai (1940-2011) was an internationally renowned Kenyan environmental political activist, Nobel laureate and the founder of the Green Belt Movement, an environmental organization focused on the planting of trees, environmental conservation, and women’s rights.

My First Ten Years in ICO
by Bill Tayler

On February 9, 2008, I went on my first outing with San Diego ICO – hiking the Anza-Borrego Desert – and on February 9, 2018, I led a group of students on a sunset hike up Cowles Mountain. In the 10 years that passed between those hikes, I led or assisted on 425 other ICO hiking, camping and snorkeling trips. I have met dedicated and generous volunteers who have become some of my best friends. And ICO has been a way to spend time with my 81-year-old father doing something we both love: he joined ICO in 2009 and has assisted me on 220 trips.

ICO trips also have given me countless wonderful memories of introducing kids to the outdoors. In Joshua Tree, we slept outside with no tents between us and the stars overhead. In Sedona, we night-hiked up Bell Rock, chased javelinas out of camp, and woke at dawn to the sound of kids playing in fresh snow that fell overnight. In La Jolla Cove, kids who had never before been in the ocean have suddenly been face-to-face with curious sea lions swimming up to us to gaze into our eyes as we snorkeled. And I couldn’t even guess how many kids held a snake for the first time on an ICO trip with me, learning that they are not scary or slimy – and definitely not something to kill.

And with some of the kids, I have been able to share their journey from childhood into adulthood, seeing the lasting benefits that ICO brings. I mentored David as he matured from a 4th-grade boy to become the first in his family to graduate high school. He now loves hiking and camping near San Luis Obispo, where he is pursuing a psychology degree at Cal Poly and considering a future working with children. Karen and Evelyn – cousins whose mothers are immigrants from Oaxaca – first went on ICO trips with me when they were in elementary school. Now in high school and soon headed for college, they still come with me on ICO trips, but now they come as helpers and mentors to kids who are as young as they were when I first met them. One of the girls they mentor – Jessica – told me that she is going to be “the next Karen.” And I have no doubt that in five or six years, another child will say that she is going to be “the next Jessica.”

The impact we have on many ICO kids is self-perpetuating, and that is a very gratifying thing to see. So if you are looking for a way to make a real difference in the lives of the next generation (and beyond) and to bring something wonderful into your own life at the same time, join me for the next 10 years.
